

Thu Giang

Web Developer

Currently working part-time at the Commonwealth Bank of Australia, and studying towards a diploma in Web Development & Design at Developers Institute; I have five months of experience creating client-side interfaces and am now learning server-side. I am a curious and open-minded person; I love learning new things in my free time and expanding my existing skillsets.

Skills

Hard

My course has me on the way to being a well-rounded Full Stack Developer. I have obtained various Web skills such as HTML, CSS, JavaScript and React. I'm studying Nodejs, Express, and MongoDB to become a MERN Stack Developer. Also, I have familiarized myself with some essential tools and frameworks/libraries such as Git, Bootstrap, Material UI, Antd Design and Sass.

Soft

Being a Financial Crime Analyst has helped me to develop soft skills such as strong communication skills, attention to detail and the ability to work effectively and efficiently in a rapidly changing team environment. My work ethic has been strengthened significantly by this and other previous roles.

Experience

2022 - Present

Developers Institute | Whangarei, Northland

Student

With a concise Full-stack Developer course path, I started off by learning client-side: HTML, CSS, JavaScript and React. Right now I'm in the middle of the second term of the course, where I will be learning about Nodejs, Express, MongoDB, REST APIs and Jest testing. Next term, I will be focusing on how to combine both client-side and server-side to create full-stack projects. The last term will be about Agile Developments and DevOps, where my learning objective is to continually design, develop, test and deploy a modern enterprise-class web application.

2021 - Present

Common Wealth Bank | Albany, Auckland

Financial Crime Analyst

This is a demanding role where a high degree of accuracy is required, especially when handling private or sensitive information. Made duties included placing and receiving phone calls, updating CRM systems, dispatching external customer communications and completing financial crime work. The work is measured by targets and KPIs, which I regularly exceed. I currently work as a part of a cohesive 15-person team, where clear communication and awareness of the changes, which are constantly made to our operating procedures, are highly valuable.

Please get in touch with me if you require further information about my previous roles.
